Painting the classics

Abstract expressionism and jazz connect through their shared pursuit of creative freedom and emotional expression. Whether in gestural painting or musical improvisation, both seek to capture the intensity of the creative act, allowing for personal interpretations within ambiguity and thereby creating deep, subjective experiences.

In 20th-century art, abstract expressionist figures like Jackson Pollock, Lee Krasner, and Willem de Kooning made a profound impact by exploring gestural painting and emotional expression in their works. Similarly, influential jazz musicians, including Miles Davis, Mary Lou Williams, and John Coltrane, renowned for their innovation and sonic experimentation, have significantly shaped the genre's evolution.

ANGEL gold 1

The word "angel" derives from the Greek ἄγγελος angelos, 'messenger.' This name was already used in ancient Greece, according to the Greek pantheon the demon Angelia (Ἄγγελία) was the messenger of the gods, daughter of the messenger god Hermes.

ANGEL gold 2

The word "angel" derives from the Greek ἄγγελος angelos, 'messenger.' This name was already used in ancient Greece, according to the Greek pantheon the demon Angelia (Ἄγγελία) was the messenger of the gods, daughter of the messenger god Hermes.

GOLDEN CENTAUR

Creature from Greek mythology with the head, arms and torso of a human and the body and legs of a horse.

THE BIKER

Biker driving an invisible motorcycle, against the wind, to some imaginary place.

GOLDEN AGE Couple

Elegant performance, golden couple that transports us to the 20th century.

GOLDEN AND SILVER Couple

Elegant performance, couple that transports us to the 20th century.
Variation!

LADY WITH UMBRELLA

Subtle performance of ancient silver female statue.

The lady with the umbrella is a symbol of the Ciutadella Park and the Barcelona Zoo. Who has never been enthralled looking at this enigmatic period woman, whose name is unknown, who delicately extends her hand to us?

MARBLE MAIDEN

Suggestive marble figure ideal for ancient, historical settings, receptions, etc.

STONE MAN

Going out the front door! Give your events the touch of authenticity.

Ideal for cultural, traditional, musical events.

CARYATID

To honor Artemis Caryatid, Peloponnesian women often performed folk dances with baskets of plants on their heads, an image that inspired the aesthetics of the caryatid.

JAZZTRONIC

Musical performance.
Steampunk style
saxophonist.

ROBOT VINTAGE

In the nostalgia of childhood, we drew tin robots on paper, imaginary creations with loose screws and pencil hearts. Far from mechanical perfection, they were products of childish dreams, silent witnesses to our innocent inventiveness.

AMERICAN NATIVE

The feather was given as a sign of respect and honor. Native Americans who possessed certain personal abilities or who accomplished something of great significance to the tribe were candidates for receiving hand feathers from chiefs or elders as a sign of strength. The Native American who wore the headdress with the greatest number of feathers was usually the chief.

ROMAN

Popular Roman gladiator on a base that transports us to the majestic epic tales of legendary feats of heroes or mythical origins.

STEAMPUNK COUPLE

AGORA

Classic Roman or Greek figures. White, neat, majestic.

she/he

"In the Shadowy Dance of Conquest"

History's pages unveil a dark connection between conquistadors and the abduction of women. Bartolomé de las Casas, with his accusatory pen in "A Short Account of the Destruction of the Indies," sheds light on the tragic reality of indigenous women seized in the colonial maelstrom. Between the lines, Sylvia Marcos weaves a narrative that emphasizes the pain and enduring cultural scars. Thus, conquest leaves its mark not only on territories but also on the hearts of torn communities, where the abduction of women becomes a silent echo of resistance and memory.

GÁRGOLA

freed from its modest function as a mere drainage spout, becomes a veiled art. It is the unveiling of the sculptor's unrestricted creativity. Symbolically, it personifies the juxtaposition between evil and sin on the exterior of the cathedral, set against the good and the sacred within, like an ancestral echo instructing on the inescapable presence of evil. The Gothic Cathedral of Burgos (1221 and 1568) harbors in its spire gargoyles that embody malevolence. These sculptures, as a whole, are superb, spine-chilling, original, overwhelming, ghostly, and unsettling, whispering age-old secrets in the twilight of mystery.

COLORFULL CENTAUR

Creature from Greek mythology, winged with the head, arms and torso of a human and the body and legs of a horse.

The guardian of animals

This is a performance that mixes opart, fantasy and polygonal animals with intense blue finishes, ready to surprise everyone.

ALPINIST

Authentic vintage comic style mountaineer. High mountain skis, backpack, mat, front, ...

MARIO BROSS

Play with Mario!
Interactive performance with Super Mario.
Its scenery consists of the classic Arcade machine.
Where young and old interact with the famous character of all time.

THE SIMULATORS

Adaptation from TV comedy, they are dedicated to solving common problems with the art of simulation.

Inspired by film noir in juxtaposition with the Marbel aesthetic, we present an authentic 2D experience that plays with visual perception.

Alucinarte is an Argentine-Catalan artistic and theatrical company with a rich history spanning decades, and we can elaborate on its trajectory over the years.

We have had the privilege of working in more than 100 cities and 30 countries worldwide.

We are winners of over 34 awards, recently securing the first prize at the "Living Statues en Marche 2023," with our first historic award dating back to Barcelona's "Living Statues festival del Tibidabo 2002."

We provide shows and artistic services in various national and international contexts, at private and corporate events (Formula 1 in Bahrain, Circuit de Catalunya Moto GP, Hotel Arts, La Fira, etc.), public events (cultural celebrations, etc.), advertisements and cinema, nightlife, and international festivals of art, performance, and street theater.

Our mission is to create a memorable visual impact through meticulous and professional multifactorial artistic work. What we do resembles the art of farmers who, with dedication and commitment, cultivate the land season after season, hoping to harvest the fruits of their labor. In our case, the result is the product of years of sacrifice and the accumulation of experience, knowledge, inspiration, talent, and dedication.

Additionally, our team comprises a group of passionate actors and artists who live and breathe their work, coming from various fields of the artistic, social, and cultural sphere.

Our great motivation is street performance. On the street, you never know who your audience will be, and that's what makes this art so exciting—venturing out into the unknown and discovering it all. At Alucinarte, we are deeply passionate and committed to our work. We have never feared the audience; on the contrary, we find in their gazes the confirmation that our work is a bridge between the earthly world and the realm of ideas.

We love performing in diverse contexts and places, and we do not limit ourselves to performing in a single cultural sphere. We consider ourselves a kind of ethnographic artists, learning from the places we travel to and sharing our way of working, as in the case of the Sahara, where we teach our technique to theater students and collaborate with them every year.

“Acting is living in every moment”

Also, as is the case with the festivals we have taken around the world embodying the proposal of interdisciplinary street arts, drawing inspiration from the urban landscape of years past, such as the Rambla de Barcelona, a place we know well as we performed freely there for years thanks to authorization from the city council.
